

IAFS Workshop 09: Global History of Forensic Science

This workshop will impact the forensic science community by illustrating the seminal events in the history of forensic science. It will enhance critical thinking across a broad area of forensic science including questioned documents, forensic psychiatry, criminalistics, forensic medicine, judicial practices, disaster management, blood spatter interpretation, forensic toxicology and political interventions into forensic practices. It will enhance the attendee's appreciation and awareness of the foundations of forensic medicine and science.

0900-0905 Welcome: Christopher Milroy, IAFS Vice President and Program Chair and Jeff Jentzen, Workshop Co-Chair.

Moderator: Ian Burney, Workshop Co-Chair

0905-0915 Chris Hamlin: Introduction to the History of Legal Medicine

0915-0945 Christopher Hamlin, University of Notre Dame, "The Textbook Tradition in Forensic Medicine 1600-1910."

0945-1015 Matthew Sommer, Stanford University, "Ancient Chinese Forensic Medicine and its Connections to the Present."

1015-1045 Katherine Watson, Oxford Brookes University, UK "The Links between Forensic Science and Forensic Medicine in the 19th Century England"

1045-1100 Break

Moderator:

1100-1130 Ian Burney, Manchester University, UK, "Body, Space Trace: Murder and the Making of English CSI."

1130-1200 Vicki E. Daniel, University of Wisconsin-Madison ""Trial by Fire: Forensic Odontology in the 19th and 20th Centuries"

1200-1230 Dan Asen, Rutgers University-Newark " Fingerprinting in Modern China"

1230-1330 Lunch Break

Moderator: Jeffrey Jentzen

1330-1400 Katherine Watson, Brookes University, UK "Thomas Scattergood: Forensic Toxicology in Victorian Yorkshire"

1400-1430 Vicki E. Daniel, University of Wisconsin-Madison "History of Forensic Medicine in Disaster Identification."

1430-1500 Ian Burney, Manchester University UK, " Spatters and Lies: Technologies of Truth in the Sam Sheppard Murder Trials, 1954-65."

1500-1530 Jeffrey Jentzen, "Legal Medicine in Colonial America"

1530-1600 Christopher Milroy, University of Ottawa, "The Goudge Report and the Ontario Death Investigation Reform."

Close Program